LETTER FROM GEORGE D. BARNES

50 BAWSON ST., ATLANTA, MAY 7, '88.
DEAR FRIEND: I heard Bishop Beckwith, the Georgia diocesan, preach yesterday. This is the 31st Southern proponent of lawn sleeves it has been my good fortune to hear. This "reverend father in God," like the Bishops of Mississippi and Louisiana, is an extempore speaker, full of ready utterance and graceful of manner, withal. He preached in St. Philip's, after confounding 40 candidates, old and young. His address to the confirmands was exceedingly practical and pointed. It was, briefly, this:

The reason there is so much infidelity in the world is because there is so much inconsistent Christianity in the Church.

Yet the world is wrong in its reasoning. Says the man who holds himself aloof from the Church: "I see so much that I can't approve in professed Christians; they act so wrongly in business matters, they conform so cowardly to non-Christian practices; that I will not join a body where they are." Now, however true these charges may be, the conclusion is dishonest, and seem to be such, because in their own avocations they employ no such reasoning. They do not say, "A is dishonest in his banking operations. It is not true, but swindling he carries on; I will not be a banker." "It is a scoundrel; he lies without stain in selling his goods, I will go out of the dry goods business." If they would not argue this in secular affairs, is it fair to do so in religious matters? But this being true, it is also true that a worldling will continue to be stumbled by what he sees among Christians.

I have just returned from a trip to Palestine. I will tell you what I saw in Jerusalem. The "Church of the Holy Sepulchre," built on the spot where legend affirms the body of our Lord was laid after death, belongs to the Latin, Greek, Coptic and Abyssinian Christians. A Mohammedan sentinel, with fixed bayonet, has to stand guard over the sacred spot, to keep these Christians from cutting each others' throats, when they come to worship where the body of the Prince of Peace once lay. Fancy the thoughts of that Musselman when Christianity tries to convert him to Christianity! His answer is, "Don't send missionaries to me; send them to your own people, to teach them the knowledge of their own salvation."

Pray without ceasing for a consistent, holy, religious life, that "he who runs, may read."

I pray you have the "courage of conviction." Fear only to sin. Unbounded fearlessness in all else, while treading the path of duty.

Finally "grow in grace." Never be satisfied without substantial progress—rapid and steady.

I call that a timely and excellent address. Afterwards the good Bishop, being full of Palestine, so lately visited, gave a sketch of his rambles there, very interesting, as a lecture, and with an occasional touch of real eloquence.

Communion afterwards made the service in all three hours. A trial of tenderness to the flesh, but the "Body and Blood" repaid the waiting. But I should gladly have unsaid the Palestine talk, that any one can read in a hundred books. Allowance must be made for a traveler, however, who naturally thinks his hearers will be delighted him. A great mistake, but a very common one. I have some dear friends who "wear me out" with, "When I was in—From that on I know what is coming, oh, the weary iteration! I hope I have learned a lesson from it." Who knows himself, though? Perhaps some of my friends have said, "Bro. Barnes makes me weary when he talks of his travels." If so, dear mentor, in kindness tell me of it and let me learn to do better. I have suffered so from others. I would not degenerate into one of these dear bores, if I can help it. Help me, if you see me sliding down the sleep-decency; for beyond a certain point the matter becomes irremediable. One goes to the bottom. There is no stopping place.

Bishop Beckwith looks very like my old friend, H. M. Poynter, of the big gomes, which drew me to him immediately. The pulpit was strung with roses, which he scattered once and again, unconsciously, in the fervor of his address. They were not well secured. "Flowers of oratory," emphatically, were these.

St. Philip's has a large choir of boys, dressed in white surplices over black cassocks; well drilled, and with their treble, in chorus, adding much to the musical service. The leader made one blunder, of allowing a boy solo, on a high key. The little fellow did his best; squeaked shrilly and gamely, till his vocal organs failed to respond; went to pieces, and the tittering congregation with it. It was supremely ridiculous, but only a "spot on the sun." I wish these boy choirs were multiplied indefi-nately. Many a splendid preacher has come out of them. It is a grand training school for the youngsters; gives them "something to do" early in life; and is a delightful adjunct to church music. Like Samuel, girded with his little-lined ephod, and learning the duties of his after life in tender years. With this scriptural model I cannot see what possible objection there can be to boy choirs in all our churches.

The Bishop complimented the church on their music, and the praise was just. A concert led them; and the service began with a march from a room in the corner of the spacious church, where the boys first sang with closed doors, in full chorus, giving the idea of music in the far distance, very perfectly. Then the doors gradually and slowly opened; keeping up the illusion of a nearer approach; till finally they were thrown wide and the full tide of melody burst out. Then they marched, keeping time and step, down the long aisle to the chancel, followed by Rector and Bishop, still singing harmoniously; and filing right and left took their seats in front of the altar rails, in pews prepared for the choir. When the services were over the same musical march was accomplished; the folding doors gradually closed; and when, as if from the voices of angels, in the distant sky, the faint, but melodious "Amen" seemed whispered from another sphere, the congregation rose and filed silently out, with the hush of voices from a heavenly world upon them. I don't know when I have been more impressed by a little pious acting than at St. Philip's. And I thought it lovely and appropriate and as acceptable to the Lord as the whispered or shonted tones of the preacher, which, fine and spontaneous acting, in its turn, what is it, but "stage thunder" employed naturally and piously for holy purposes? And I ask myself, and others, are discord and awkwardness more acceptable to the God of harmony and order, than melody and euphony in singing and preaching? To ask the question is to answer it.

The Bishop gave St. Philip's a light tap over the knuckles for being in debt on their handsome church. Thusly:

Cupid's Triumph.

On Saturday, May 12. Last Thursday, long before 1 o'clock, the Christian church was literally packed with relatives and friends, who came to witness the marriage of Mr. Curtis Gover and Miss Maggie Davis, which was performed by Rev. J. B. Gibson in a very beautiful and appropriate manner. The attendants were Prof. C. F. Duvall and Miss Alice Ward; Mr. R. G. Goyer and Miss Lillie Thixton; Mr. J. B. Lewell and Miss Mary Thixton and Mr. B. H. Vanhook and Miss Beauregard Stewart. Messrs. J. R. Bailey and Wilson Billon acted as ushers. Miss Louana James, who was to have played the wedding march, was prevented from doing so on account of her father being very ill. Miss Anna Fish presided at the organ in her stead. The church was artistically and beautifully decorated for the occasion. It was truly a charming scene and the bright lamp lights added greatly to its beauty, day being entirely shut out. Immediately after the ceremony the entire bridal party and many of their friends drove to the depot, where Mr. and Mrs. Gover, accompanied by the first two couples named, took the train for Louisville. On the return trip they will visit Mr. and Mrs. John Gover and are expected back here on Monday next. During the ceremony the bride was handsomely attired in an elegant blue cloth traveling suit, with hat and gloves to match. She is one of our loveliest and most attractive young ladies, endowed with an amiable, joyous disposition and possesses these accomplishments that will make her a true help meet and proud indeed ought Mr. Gover to be of the treasure he has won. He has been living here about eight months and is a partner with his cousin, Mr. B. G. Gover, in his large livery stable. He came into our midst a stranger, but by his quiet, gentlemanly conduct and universal kindness to all with whom he came in contact, has gained many friends. That your journey along life's pathway may be prosperous and happy and that your heart may never beat less happily than on the lovely day that saw you made husband and wife, is the heartfelt wish of the Clark Orchard correspondent and numerous other warm friends.

Boys the Hope of the World.

A nation's most valuable property is its boys. A nation which has poor, weakly, vicious boys will have still weaker, more vicious and untrustworthy men. A country with noble, virtuous, vigorous boys is equally sure of having noble, pious, brave and energetic men. Whatever debases, contaminates or in any way injures the boys of a country saps and undermines the very foundation of the nation's strength and greatness.

Save the boys from vice and crime, give them good training physically, mentally and morally and the prosperity of the nation is assured. We can conform this by being temperate in all things.

Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake City, Fla., was taken with a severe cold, attacked with a distressing cough and running into Consumption in its first stages. He tried many so called popular rough remedies and steadily grew worse. Was reduced to flesh, had difficulty in breathing and was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found immediate relief, and after using about a half dozen bottles found himself well and has had no return of the disease. No other remedy can show so grand a record of cures as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Guaranteed to do just what is claimed for it—Trial bottle free at A. R. Penny's Drug Store.

Renews Her Youth.
Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from pain and lameness and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth and removed completely all disease and pain. MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

R. H. Conn, of Brodhead, has gone to Kansas.

James Kitts and Joel Anglin, of the Orlando neighborhood, have been at odds for some days on account of Anglin's stock trespassing on Kitts' pasture. The parties met by accident in the woods on Saturday and after quarreling a fight followed, in which clubs were freely used. Kitts left Anglin on the ground for dead and made his escape. Anglin was carried home and found to have a broken arm and rib and several contusions on the head, and is in a precarious condition.

—Joseph H. McKee, son of Dr. McKee of Pittman, Fla., formerly a citizen of this place, is here on a visit. He has entered a clerkship at London and will enter upon this in a short time. W. R. Crenshaw, a former civil engineer on the K. C., now located at Cumberland Gap Tunnel, under construction, was here on Sunday. He says the Powell's Valley road will be finished to the gap within a few months and that the several roads under construction towards that point are making favorable progress.

A terrible shooting affray took place Friday near Holden's mill, on the line of Rockcastle and Lincoln counties, between Uriah Albright and John Benge and his two sons. Albright had a lease on some lands belonging to the Lair heirs for cutting timber and taking oil-tar. Benge had moved onto the lands before Albright had finished hauling off the bark, and on going there to take a last load was confronted by the Benges with guns and pistols. They attempted to open the upon him, but by some means all of their weapons refused to fire, when Albright drew a pistol, a .44 Remington, and began the deadly work. John Benge was shot across the temple, tearing out both eyes; John, Jr., was shot through the breast and shoulder and Younger Benge through the lung. All will die. All the parties were farmers. The Benges' reputation is rather clouded. Albright is a quiet citizen and was never in trouble before.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Elder Larimore has just closed a meeting at the Chestnut Street Christian church, Louisville, with 64 additions.

—St. Paul's cathedral at Buffalo, N. Y., turned Friday, as the result of an explosion of natural gas. It was valued at $250,000; insurance $60,000.

—At the church meeting Saturday the Baptists by a unanimous vote invited Rev. J. M. Bruce to preach for them during his coming visit on his return from the General Association.

—The Midway church has by a vote of 51 to 4 called Rev. A. S. Moffett to its pastorate, but if his congregation here can prevent it, he will not accept. We have never known a pastor to be more beloved than he, nor more more deservedly so.

—Rev. Dr. E. M. Green and Rev. D. Harvey Glass, assisted by Mr. H. C. Farris, all of Danville, Ky., will be in Somerset on the 20th of this month, that being the third Sunday, to organize the Somerset Presbyterian church. The members have heretofore worshipped with the Pisgah church, 5 miles from town. —[Reporter.]

—The Southern Baptist Convention organized at Richmond, electing Rev. J. P. Boyce, of the Louisville Theological Seminary, president; D. W. Norton treasurer, and W. LaRue Thomas, auditor, also of Louisville. The board reported the number of accessions to the church in the home mission field 7,496 and the cost of the work was $177,753.

—Owing to a throat trouble and general debility, Rev. H. C. Morrison had to close his meeting Sunday night. There were no additions, but we learn that much good was accomplished among the members, who renewed their obligations of better work for the Master's cause. It is a subject of general regret that he could not have remained longer.

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., MAY 15, 1888

W. P. WALTON.

The newspaper and other friends, whose name is Legion, of Col. E. Polk Johnson, managing editor of the Courier-Journal, want to compliment him with the temporary chairmanship of the Lexington convention. The colonel has had much experience in parliamentary bodies, is thoroughly conversant with the rules and customs as he does good humor with drowsiness, he will make a presiding officer of which any body of representative men might be proud. Then too he has done yeoman service for the party, without asking or seeking reward, and it would be the graceful and proper thing to acknowledge it by the bestowal of the honor.

We do not believe that Senator Harris' parole bill, which was made the law, will work well, at least it has not elsewhere where it has been tried. The idea of turning the rascals loose after the very hard time that the Commonwealth has to convict them, will hardly be relished by those who love the enforcement of the law. The commissioners can parole 5 per cent. of the prisoners a year, but none convicted of murder can be paroled until they have served ten years. Under this law a life sentence loses its terror, as it will virtually amount to but a few years if the prisoner behaves himself.

We learn by private underground wire that Col. Emmett G. Logan, the fiery and "impressive" young man, who carries the destiny of the Louisville Times in the hollow of his hand, which member is nearly as large as his foot, is down with a terrible carbuncle on his neck. Thus do we see that punishment sometimes follows sin in this world as it is sure to do in the next. We are sorry for the poor fellow, but he has refused to listen to our exhortations and there is nothing left but for him to grin and bear the consequences of his many sins with what fortitude he can command.

"THERE seems to be no opposition in this Appellate District to the renomination of Judge Pryor. Nearly every county has instructed for him." This quotation is from the Covington Commonwealth, which recently characterized our statement that Judge Pryor's race was won in advance, as "pure graft" that Judge O'Hara or somebody else was ready to knock the stuffing out of him, or words to that effect. What have you to say now, Br'er Casey? That you do not always know all you think you know, eh?

The democrats could not do a more graceful and deserved act than to make Hon. Henry Watterson a delegate from the State-at-large to the St. Louis convention, by acclamation. He has done more than any other one man in the country for the end all good democrats are now seeking, the reduction of the tariff, and the convention will like honor itself and him by showing in this manner their hearty approbation of his work.

Mr. WATTERSON in a prophetic mood says that in addition to the Southern States "Mr. Cleveland will carry of the New England States, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Of the Western States he will carry Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, and, perhaps, Illinois, off the Pacific Coast States, California and Oregon." Why not make the thing unanimous? It begins to look that way now.

The friends of Dr. Pusey here are more than gratified that Gov. Buckner has fully determined to retain him as superintendent of the Anchorage Asylum. He is spoken of as a most competent official and his management shows that he has been faithful to the trust. The governor, who has the levelest head of any man in the State, evinces his usual good sense in retaining him.

AFTER reading the ultra-republican papers, we are forced to the opinion that the greatest objection they can urge against Mr. Fuller, the President's appointee to the chief justiceship, is that he has one of the heaviest moustaches in the country and quotes poetry fluently when making a speech. These are indeed serious objections.

ONE prisoner in the Peru, Ind., jail kicked another to death because he persisted in snoring. The verdict of the coroner's jury should be justifiable homicide. We have always thought that snoring ought to be classed in the list of capital offenses, and the accused denied the benefit of the clergy.

The current Pineville Messenger is an illustrated paper, showing many points of interest in that favored section, which are dilated on at length. Bro. Colgan is doing a great work for his section by bringing its inexhaustible resources to the attention of the outside world.

MARYLAND democrats instructed for Cleveland and Alabama, Tennessee and Michigan endorsed his tariff message. So far not a single State has failed to do likewise.

Lexington is making big preparations for the convention.

We suppose the governor of West Virginia will be satisfied now. The supreme court has confirmed the decision of the two lower courts in the Hatfield cases and Kentucky will hold them to account for their numerous murders committed on her soil.

Fields and daughters, Misses Annie and Carrie, have returned from a visit to Louisiana. Mr. John Overstreet, of Little Hickman, Jessamine county, and a graduate of the Danville Deaf Mute Institute, is in town selling an ingenious invention of his, which is a combined screw driver, wrench pliers, hammer, nippers and leg ringers. Mr. W. W. Irwin, of Wheeling, W. Va., a native of this county, is here visiting friends. Also Mrs. A. L. Gransby, and children, of New York. Dr. Guerrier, formerly of this place, now of Mt. Sterling, is in town.

A storm party at which croaking was one of the pastimes and Miss Anna Spears the young lady strolled occurred Saturday night. Those present were Misses Sadie Cecil, Lucille Caldwell, Mamie Batterson, Mary Anderson, Jessie Moore, Katie Smith, Evelyn Eastland, Namie Reed, Sallie Mahan, Lulu Shlaughter, Ellie Bruce, Sallie Veal, Matie Bosley, Misses Cowan and Marlin, gentlemen: Messrs. William Stodghill, Graham Price, Fleece Robinson, K. Kinnard, Henry Cray, John Roberts, J. J. Johnson, Louis May, E. B. Nelson, Leonard Elzey, Ed Bill N. C. Unreton, O. B. Caldwell, Richard Apperson, Lome Rue, Will Cook, Frank Chrissman, Messrs. Givens, Skillman and Wright.

John A. Manley and wife, registering as from Chicago, were here last week, when Mrs. Manley, who is a rather fascinating blonde, circulated among the boys and tried to get up a circulating library.

She succeeded in collecting a considerable sum of money and said the books would be here on Saturday, but Saturday she left about 70 copies of popular-seaside novels with one of merchants to be distributed, saying that 500 bound books would be here ready Monday.

The day has not yet expired and the 500 volumes may yet be rolling in. If they do not the boys will be inclined to lose confidence in humanity. The young gentleman who invested $1.50 and presented Mrs. Manley with a Macehal Niel rose and an apple already feels bad. On the personal card of Mrs. Manley was neatly written "Mrs. Grace Manley."

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

The Sunday law is being rigidly enforced in Lancaster.

Blackberry winter is upon us, overcoats are in demand.

It takes a prescription to get lemons on Sunday in Lancaster.

R. H. Fox is about completing Water street. It will be the prettiest street in town.

Farmers are justly complaining of the want of rain. Oats are looking slim and the corn is not coming up well.

Bro. Walden filled the pulpit at the Christian church on Sunday. Mr. Tengarden will preach there next Sunday.

Capt. T. A. Elkin has had the misfortune to lose another fine colt by Arthur Sims. He says it was worth at $100.

Rev. J. C. Randolph taught his congregation a new lesson on Sunday. He showed very conclusively that the Jews did not kill Christ, and a reference to the "Encyclopedia Britannica" shows that it is a fact. It is quite true the Jews after judging our Savior, delivered Him over to the Roman authorities, and insisted that He be condemned to death.

Pilate after the first hearing sent him to Herod and that ruler returned Him to Pilate saying he saw nothing to condemn.

Pilate, who had reason to fear the wrath of the Jews, being deputy ruler over a turbulent people, who like Paul of old, were kicking against the gods, was afraid to refuse their demands and having acceded to them became in a sense the real murderer of our Lord.

—L. F. Hubble, Esq., left yesterday for Birmingham. He expects to remain there during the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Davis, of Maysville, are visiting Mr. H. C. Mills, then W. J. Landrum and Hon. W. C. Bradley are attending the Laurel Circuit Court. H. T. Logan is in the city. Mrs. John H. Woodcock and Coleman Rogers Sweeney attended the Barrett Booth engagement at Louisville. Mr. H. Woodcock went to Somers Saturday. H. C. Kunzman, R. H. Tomlinson, M. H. Hughes, W. S. Miller, Capt. Lillard and others will go to the convention at Lexington to-morrow. Judge Walker, Col. Fankner and Tom Wherry went to Louisville yesterday. J. P. Sanfier made a flying trip to Cincinnati on Saturday. Mr. George Bradley left yesterday for Pueblo, Col., where he will make his home.

E. C. W. on his Annual Visit to the old Home

IN C. & D. TRAIN for Richmond, May 11.—As the year rolls round and the merry month of May comes, so comes the time for my annual trip to the old Dominion to see alike my numerous relatives and I would like to say friends. Starting on this delightful trip I left Stanford Tuesday evening, arrived at Lexington a couple of hours later, where the spring races were in full bloom, everything in an uproar and excited condition and everybody in fine shape for betting. Standing in the Phoenix Hotel office a few minutes in conversation with a friend, I was accosted five times by men who wished, I supposed, to "work a sucker" for a bet on the race, which was then going on. But not being a member of the sporting class and knowing that I had a long trip before me, I cautiously put my little wad of money in the deepest pocket I had and there kept it.

While waiting for the Virginia bound train which leaves Lexington at 11 a. m., I went to see Burk's Curriculum, or Burk's Horse Show in plain English, at the new Opera House, and for a "rotten" performance, as show people express it, it took the cake. This show, it will be remembered, tried to hold the boards at Stanford and the theatre-going people there should consider themselves under lasting obligations to the management of the Opera House for refusing to let such a snake show exhibit.

My train being on time to a dot I boarded it and in a short time was in the arms of Morpheus. At 8 o'clock the next morning I was awakened by the yell from the porter, "Kanawha Falls, twenty minutes to breakfast." A good night's sleep, feeling Hale and hearty, propitious weather, a light heart and not a care on my mind, I was in first-class shape to enjoy the 350 miles ride, through a country of unsurpassing beauty, I had to take before reaching Richmond. My eyes fairly feasted on the gracefully towering mountains; the beautiful, fertile valleys, the rocky cliffs which could be seen on one side, and the rocky, but in some places smoothly running New River, alongside of which the Chesapeake & Ohio Route lies for a 100 miles or more. While all of this was beautiful beyond my ability to describe, still there was something wanting, the grass, instead of being like Kentucky blue-grass.

"Where verdure and blossom never fade And fields are eternally fair," was of a sickening yellowish color. At 2 o'clock we stopped at Clifton Forge for dinner. After a hearty meal I enquired for the residence of Mrs. C. T. Parrish, nee Miss Mildred Lewis, who all know was one of Stanford's fairest of her many fair, but was disappointed when I was told that she was not in town. Dinner over, we started out again and a 4 hours' run, with only 4 stops, brought us to Charlottesville, where supper was served. Only a 3 hours' run to Richmond. Most of this was spent in looking at the old country I had known so well in my more youthful days. I was struck with the vast changes that have taken place. The old houses I used to visit are now dilapidated and in some instances torn down entirely, save the chimneys which stand to mark the spot where once a happy family lived. Inquiry of the people in my old neighborhood brought to me the sad intelligence that save a few families the old friends had either died or left for more money-making climes. My thoughts wholly absorbed about these dear friends who had crossed the dark river, I was all of a sudden reminded of Stanford by a pole bearing two flags, a black one above white. This I recognized at once as the Signal Service and that the weather would be warmer. This was at Louisville, Ky., where the editor of this paper first saw light, a town of some 300 inhabitants. How quickly my thoughts were then changed to my "old Kentucky Home," and how plainly I see the displayman at his post running up the flag with the ready doe, the Lexington donkey devil, assisting him. This would produce a homesickness were I to go on any length of time, but knowing it will be only a few days till I again see her, I think of it all in most pleasant way, only one more station and then Richmond. The train does not stop and in a few minutes my destination will be reached. A long whistle from the engine and the brakeman calls out "Richmond." I close this with his yell in order to get it off on a western train which meets this one at this place. My trip has been a most delightful one and more about it I will tell in Friday's issue.

The L. & N. will sell tickets today to the Louisville races, good to return until the 27th at one fare for the round-trip.

The new omnibus of A. T. Nunnelley has arrived and it is as handsome as can be. "Fatty" is as proud of it as the governor is of his baby and he has a right to be.

Mr. SCHILLING, the popular Louisville restaurant man, has rented the John Boughman store room and will open up a first-class restaurant here about June 1st.

It has been quite cold since Saturday and a light frost fell that night. Yesterday the signal service said it would be colder still. In the north-west the wheat has been seriously damaged.

The county judge of Mercer refuses to issue liquor license under Judge Russell's recent decision and will not permit any to be issued until the question is settled by the Court of Appeals.

Mr. MT. VERNON SIGNAL touches the tenderest spot in our heart when it says such nice things about our business manager. We may be too partial, but we don't believe there is another such boy in the world.

Wm. C. SQUIRREL hunting Saturday evening, son at conductor Wm. C. Clegg, supposing he was stolen, came in and engaged an advertisement, but before it was set, Robert McAlister found the horse in his pasture and brought him to town. The cased had better steer clear of Uncle Jonathan if he knows when he is well off.

SOONHORN saddled and bridle Jonathan's old family horse Saturday night and rode him off. Mr. Clegg, supposing he was stolen, came in and engaged an advertisement, but before it was set, Robert McAlister found the horse in his pasture and brought him to town. The cased had better steer clear of Uncle Jonathan if he knows when he is well off.

EDWARD BURGESS, a young negro man, was adjudged insane Friday and taken to the Lexington Asylum by Sheriff Newland. Dr. Clark pronounced him harmless and incurable and returned him to the county. His step-father, Squire Higgins, will take him for the $750 a year that the State allows.

THE SCHEDULE which went into effect on the L. & N. yesterday makes but little change in passenger trains here. The mail and local freights have the same time, the express going south now arrives at 11:30 a.m. and going north at 3:27 a.m. This latter is a change of an hour and 37 minutes later.

W. H. McROBBINS was further complimented by the State convention of phrenologists at Henderson, by being elected recording secretary.

Mr. J. B. TAYLOR, of this place, and M. J. Miller, of Mt. Vernon, started to Texas yesterday, we suppose to buy the new Capitol and turn it into a National Bank.

To MR. FRIENDS AND PATRONS: Mr. E. H. BURRIS, mayor of the city of Stanford, has ordered the marshal to prevent me giving away any more of my goods on the street. I take this method of informing the public that they may find me inside of my store at all times where the prices will be almost equivalent to giving them away. The converts will continue as before. Respectfully, D. Klass.

A FIGHTING MAIL CLERK.—Saturday a negro and a white man took possession of the K. C. train and when the conductor came for their fare the negro cursed him and by threats and otherwise, forced him to leave the car. Mail Agent James L. Hamilton heard the noise, but being busy at his work, paid but little attention to it. Later he had occasion to pass from his apartment into the car for a drink of water. The negro, who was a burley, side-whiskered fellow, advanced towards him and said, "You 45-d-d-d son of a b----, you didn't come in here after water." The words were hardly out of his mouth before a blow flew between the eyes from Hamilton's good right fist laid him sprawling. The negro called to his white partner to shoot Hamilton, but he made a motion to do so, when quick as a flash he was laid out from a well directed blow. By this time the negro had recovered his perpendicular, and made a lunge at Hamilton, who sent him to grass again, following up his advantage this time by stamping the scoundrel in the face till the blood flew in every direction. By this time Silver Creek was reached and the well-widened pair sneaked off as best they could, while Hamilton was congratulated on all sides by the grateful passengers. He says he never was as glad that he did not have a pistol, as he would certainly have killed both of his assailants. He was as bloody when he got here as a beef and was not going to say anything about his exploit had not come passengers told about it. Besides being a good official, Hamilton is not afraid of his weight in wildcats and the man who monkeys with him had as well play with dynamite.

MR. DANVILLE correspondent, Mr. A. Anderson, has a well-written illustrated article on the Deaf and Dumb Asylum in Sunday's Courier-Journal.

A young man from Reading, Pa., came nearly dying from the effects of kissing his sweetheart's cheek, which was painted. Fortunately our girls do not have to paint, but if they did, where's the fellow who wouldn't run the risk of getting poisoned to imprint a kiss on a velvety cheek?

The latest addition to Stanford society is Miss Allie Richards Huffnau, a very lively 10-year-old, who made her debut Sunday. She will reside with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Huffnau, Jr., who think there never was such a young lady before. All will have to stick to type faster than ever now.

MR. SWEENEY'S train took down some 25 moonshiners from the mountains to Louisville Sunday and a car-load of Italians, fresh from the mother-country, who were bound for points beyond Chicago. The Captain tells us that there is a great deal of travel from New York via Knoxville to the West.

THE EXAMINING trial of Erich Allright for shooting the three Beuges, an account of which appears in our Mt. Vernon letter, was called yesterday at Crab Orchard and continued till Saturday. County Attorney D. R. Carpenter went up to attend to the case. He says that all of the men are able to go about.
